This is one of a series of reports presenting the findings of the 1933 Census of American Business. The statistics were collected in 1934 by a field canvass of retail stores in every State, city, and county in the United States, with funds provided by the Federal Civil Works Administration. They cover the operations of retailers during the year 1933.

The reports are prepared under the supervision of Fred A. Gosnell, Chief Statistician for the Census of American Business, by John Guernsey, in charge of Retail Distribution. Assistance in the preparation of this report was rendered by William A. Ruff, Assistant Chief Statistician, and James O. Reid, Retail Assistant.

Number of Stores and Sales, Classified by 11 Kinds of Business for Counties and All Places of 2,500, or Greater Population.

This special report of the Census of American Business presents in convenient form the number of stores and their sales in each of 11 kind-of-business classifications, for every county in the United States and for every incorporated city and town having a population in 1930 of 2,500 or more.

Population figures, appearing after the name of each city, represent the 1930 population. No adjustment has been made to reflect annexations which occurred in some areas subsequent to the 1930 Population Census, nor do they take into account any shifts in population since 1930.

Scope of the Census

The figures herein are from the 1933 Retail Census, a part of the Census of American Business. The data were obtained by field enumerators supplied by the Federal Civil Works Administration, who canvassed the stores and other retail places of business in every city, town and county throughout the United States. The field work was started in January, 1934, and completed at various dates, but in most areas by the end of April, 1934.

The schedules, as they were received, were examined and tested for accuracy and completeness, and were classified and coded according to the kinds of business which they represented and their types of operation.

The 11 kind-of-business classifications are, with the exception of liquor classifications, of the classifications used in the Retail Census of Distribution for 1929, which makes possible a valuable and significant comparison between conditions as they existed in 1929 and as they existed in 1933. Other published reports of the Retail Census show comparisons of employment, payrolls, expenses and types of operation (chains, independents, and other types).

Retail Census reports for each State have been issued which show, for cities of 50,000 and greater population and for each State as a whole, the same eleven condensed groups expanded into 53 kind-of-business classifications.

Retail Distribution, as covered in this Census, is the process of purveying goods to ultimate consumers for consumption or utilization, together with services incidental to the sale of goods. The function of the retailer is primarily to anticipate the wants of the consumer and to make available, at the right time and at a convenient place, a reasonable selection of goods capable of satisfying those wants. The distinguishing characteristic of a retailer is that the business is done in a retail manner, in a place of business open to the general public.

The business classifications, although usually related broadly to the kind of merchandise carried, are not interchangeable with merchandise or commodity classifications. For instance, grocery store sales are not exclusively sales of groceries; apparel stores sell accessories and men's shoes in addition to outer apparel; drug stores sell many lines other than drugs. Stores are classified according to their principal commodities or according to their popular designation.

What is contained in each group

Food Stores include 10 classifications shown in detail in the State reports and in those cities whose population exceeds 50,000. They are:

Candy and confectionery stores
Dairy products stores (including milk dealers)
Delicatessen stores
Fruit stores and vegetable markets
Grocery stores (without meats)
Combination stores (groceries and meats)

Meat markets (including sea foods)
Bakeries---caterers
Bottled beer and liquor stores
Other food stores

The classification "bottled beer and liquor stores" is a new group which did not appear in the 1929 Census. It represents retailers whose principal business is the sale of liquor in bottles. Stores owned and operated by State Liquor Store Administrations are not included. It should be borne in mind that beer, wine and liquor are sold also in stores which fall into other business classifications.

Eating Places consist of restaurants, cafeterias, lunch rooms, lunch counters, refreshment stands and drinking places. The latter is a new classification which did not appear in the 1929 Census. Beer, wine and liquor in glasses, for consumption on the premises, are sold in restaurants and other eating places as well as in those places which are classified as drinking places.

Farmers' Supplies and Country General Stores represent two classifications found in the State reports. One is that of country general stores, which are typically general merchandise stores in the smaller communities and which also sell a substantial proportion of foods. In the 1929 Census the proportion of grocery lines and meats sold by country general stores, based upon a sample described in the reports of that Census, varied from an average of 54 percent to 67 percent. It is believed that the proportion of sales of groceries and meats was greater in 1933 than in 1929. The second classification within this group is that of farmers' supply stores. Included under that classification are:

Feed stores
Fertilizer dealers
Harness shops
Seed stores
Other stores whose business is primarily the sale of agricultural supplies.

General Merchandise Group consists of department stores, variety (5-and-10, and to-a-dollar) stores, dry goods stores, and general merchandise stores. The latter are stores selling a general line of merchandise in which food, if any, is a negligible item. General merchandising stores selling a substantial quantity of food are classified as country general stores, regardless of where located. General merchandise stores exceeding $100,000 in annual sales are classified as department stores. The distinction between department stores and dry goods stores is that department stores sell a greater variety of merchandise than merely dry goods and women's apparel (usually including furniture or other household lines and men's lines), whereas dry-goods stores appeal primarily or exclusively to women customers. A dry-goods store with sales exceeding $100,000 becomes a department store if, and when, it adds furniture, household appliances, hardware and/or men's clothing and furnishings. If its sales are less than $100,000 per year it becomes a general merchandise store.

Apparel Stores include the following classifications found in the State reports and in those of the larger cities:

Men's and boys' stores (clothing and furnishings)
Family clothing stores (men's, women's and children's)
Women's ready-to-wear specialty stores
Furriers--fur shops
Millinery stores (including leased millinery departments)
Custom tailors
Accessories and other apparel stores
Shoe stores

The classification "accessories and other apparel stores" includes corset and lingerie shops, hosiery shops, children's specialty shops, infants' wear shops, and mail-order houses engaged exclusively in the sale of apparel. Similar classifications appear in the 1929 Census.

Automotive Group (except filling stations) includes motor-vehicle dealers, used car dealers, automobile accessories, tire and battery stores, dealers in motorcycles, bicycles and supplies related thereto, garages and repair shops, and other automotive retailers, including those selling airplanes and parts, and boats (motor boats, yachts and canoes). The automotive group as used in most instances throughout the Retail Census also includes filling stations, but for this report filling stations are separately listed.

Filling Stations are retailers primarily of gasoline and oil for the operation of motor vehicles. While gasoline and oil constitute their principal commodities, they may sell also such related commodities as tires, batteries and automotive accessories, and may operate lunch counters and/or tourist camps. Retailers of fuel oil for domestic consumption are also included. Tourist camps whose principal revenue is derived from room rentals and/or the sale of meals, whether or not they sell gasoline and oil incidentally, are included in the Census of Service Establishments and not in the Retail Census. In addition to filling stations, retailers of gasoline and oil include a large number of stores in other classifications, such as grocery stores, farmers' supplies and country general stores. For example, the 1929 Census showed 317,232 retailers selling gasoline and oil, of which only 121,513 were filling stations. (Retail Census report, "Automotive Trades: 1929", page 30).

Furniture and Household Group. This group consists primarily of five classifications found in the State reports as follows:

Furniture stores
Floor coverings, drapery, curtain and upholstery stores
Household appliance stores
Other home furnishings and appliance stores
Radio stores

Household appliance stores and dealers are those whose principal business is the sale of electric or gas household appliances such as refrigerators, ranges, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, and other electrical appliances. About 14 percent of the stores, doing 21.5 percent of total sales in this classification, are units of chains. Three times as many stores are operated by gas and electric utility companies, primarily for the sale of appliances intended to increase the consumption of their gas and electricity. Utility-operated stores do 36.8 percent of the total sales in this classification. Independent stores are approximately equal in number (3,926) to the utility-operated stores, and they do 33.2 percent of the total sales in this classification.

The classification "other home furnishings and appliance stores" is identical with a similar classification in the 1929 Census, described in more detail on page 46 of the United States Summary for 1929. It includes aluminumware and brush canvassers, antique dealers, lamp shops, etc.

Lumber and Building Materials and Hardware Group contains six classifications described in detail in the State and larger city reports for 1933 as follows:

Lumber and building material dealers
Electrical shops (without radio)
Heating and plumbing shops
Paint and glass stores
Hardware stores
Hardware and farm implement stores

In using any of these classifications for market analysis it should be taken into consideration that it is extremely difficult to draw the line between wholesalers and retailers, particularly in the lumber and building material field. The same is true to the lesser extent in the hardware field. If a dealer reports that he does more than 50 percent of his business at wholesale he is classified in total in the Wholesale Census, which sets out separately as related data the amount of his retail business, but does not deduct it from the dealer's total sales. Such retail sales of wholesalers (or those selling more at wholesale than at retail) do not appear anywhere in the Retail Census. Likewise, dealers doing some but not 50 percent of their business at wholesale appear in total in the Retail Census.

Many lumber dealers and hardware stores which in 1929 did more than one-half of their business at retail have reported in the 1933 Census that a majority of their business now is done at wholesale. Therefore, they disappear from the Retail Census entirely and can be found only in the Wholesale Census. In this particular field it is essential that both Wholesale and Retail Census data be taken into consideration.

Drug Stores include those with and without fountains (which were classified separately in the 1929 Census), as well as leased drug departments and direct-mail retailers of drug items. Of the 58,407 stores shown in this report, 1,111 are direct-selling (house-to-house) retailers, 51 are mail-order houses, 3,760 are units of chains, and 53,341 are independents. More detail is available in the Census report on Types of Operation.

Other Stores. This group, which in this particular report excludes drug stores, contains the following classifications which likewise were included as such in the 1929 Census:

Book stores
Cigar stands
Coal and wood yards
Florists
Ice dealers
Jewelry stores
Music stores
Newsdealers
Office, school and store supply and equipment dealers
Optical stores
Printers
Stationers
Others not specifically included in groups elsewhere described.

AND ELEVEN CITY-SIZE GROUPS

This report is another of the series of special reports analyzing and making available in useable form data developed by the second Retail Census, a part of the Census of American Business.

Attention is called to the fact that it is possible to apply the broad principles of distribution developed by this report to any specific area by the use of the report entitled: "Retail Distribution by Areas," - another of the series of these special reports - which shows the number of stores and sales in every county and city throughout the United States, classified by the same eleven major business groups which are used in this report.

This is one of a series of reports presenting the findings of the 1933 Census of American Business. The statistics were collected in 1934 by a field canvass of retail stores in every State, city and county in the United States, with funds provided by the Federal Civil Works Administration. They cover the operations of retailers during the year 1933.

The reports are prepared under the supervision of Fred A. Gosnell, Chief Statistician for the Census of American Business, by John Guernsey, in charge of Retail Distribution. Assistance in the preparation of this report was rendered by William A. Ruff, Assistant Chief Statistician, and James O. Reid, Retail Assistant.

ANALYSIS OF THE RETAIL CENSUS FOR 1933

ACCORDING TO CITY-SIZE GROUPS

--o--

This report presents an analysis of the stores in operation in 1933, and their sales arranged according to 11 principal kind-of-business classifications further analyzed by size of city into 11 population groups.

Stores and Sales, by City-Size Groups

Of the 1,526,119 stores shown by the Retail Census of 1933, 19 percent are located in cities of more than 500,000 population; 7 percent in cities of 250,000 to 500,000 population; and 7 percent in cities of 100,000 to 250,000 population.

Thus there are 33 percent of the stores of the country in cities of more than 100,000 population. In comparison, there are likewise 33 percent of the stores in places of less than 2,500 population and in the unincorporated areas. Approximately the same number, or 34 percent, are in cities of 2,500 to 100,000 population.

In contrast to the almost equal division of stores in these three size-of-city groups, sales of the stores in cities of more than 100,000 population aggregated 46 percent of the total. An equal number of stores in areas of less than 2,500 population account for 18 percent of the retail business of the country. Cities included in the size range between 2,500 and 100,000, with 34 percent of the stores, did 36 percent of the total business. A summary follows:

U. S. Summary--Percent of Stores and Sales by Size of City

Geographic Divisions

The accompanying tables show similar information for each of the nine geographic divisions of the country. There are wide differences in the various geographic divisions in the proportion of stores and sales by size-of-city groups and the information provides an unusual measure of the characteristics of each area.

Comparisons of the distribution of population and of sales by city-size groups, for the various geographic divisions, reveal the extent to which retail business tends to shift to the larger cities from the smaller communities. Reference to table 3 shows that in the Middle Atlantic States, for instance, the sales in each city-size group are almost identical with population in all size groups between 2,500 and 100,000; that above 100,000 there is uniformly a higher percentage of sales than of population.

In the South Atlantic Division, however, a different situation is revealed. There is no city-size group other than that below 2,500 in which the ratio of sales fails to exceed the ratio of population, showing that in the South Atlantic States the cities of all sizes are trading centers. There is no particular size of city which is greatly different from any other size in the relation between its own population and its proportion of retail business. The table permits of similar comparisons in the other geographic divisions.

The nine geographic divisions, and the States which they comprise are as follows:

NEW ENGLAND---	Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont.
MIDDLE ATLANTIC---	New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania.
EAST NORTH CENTRAL---	Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin.
WEST NORTH CENTRAL---	Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota.
SOUTH ATLANTIC---	Delaware, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia.
EAST SOUTH CENTRAL---	Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi, Tennessee.
WEST SOUTH CENTRAL---	Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas.
MOUNTAIN---	Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming.
PACIFIC---	California, Oregon, Washington.

An accompanying summary shows the percent of stores and sales as well as population, in each size-of-city group, for each geographic division. (Table 1, 2 and 3).

Kinds of Business---Not Commodities

The following classifications by kinds of business are significant but are not interchangeable with commodity classifications. Food stores sell more than food, and food also is sold in other kinds of stores, including country general and department stores. Apparel, furniture and drugs are sold in many stores not classified primarily as apparel, furniture or drug stores. Commodity analyses were shown in the 1929 Retail Census but no commodity breakdown of sales was included in the 1933 Census. It should be noted that the range of commodities handled by stores in any given kind of business may vary with the size of the community in which the store is located.

Food Stores

Forty-two percent of all food stores are in cities of more than 100,000 population and 24 percent in places of less than 2,500 and unincorporated areas. The former do 45 percent of the food store business, whereas the small town and rural stores do 15 percent. A small number of beer-liquor stores is included.

Of all kinds of stores in cities of more than 500,000, 41 percent are food stores which account for 28 percent of the entire retail business in these large cities. In contrast, food stores constitute 23 percent of all retail stores in the areas under 2,500 population and they do 23 percent of all the retail business that is done in such areas. (Country-general stores account for a large proportion of food sales in such areas).

Eating Places

Thirty-eight percent of all eating places are in cities of 100,000 or more and they do 58 percent of the total restaurant business of the country. In contrast, 29 percent are in areas of less than 2,500 population and they do 14 percent of the restaurant business. Drinking places are included in this group.

Farmers' Supplies and Country-General Stores

In areas of less than 2,500 population are located 86 percent of all the farmers' supplies and country-general stores of the country and they do 75 percent of all the business done by such stores. Only 5 percent of the stores and 9 percent of the sales in this classification are in cities of more than 20,000 population. This classification includes general stores and farmers' supplies dealers.

General-Merchandise Stores

Thirty-one percent of all stores in the general-merchandise group are in cities of more than 100,000 population and they do 60 percent of the total general-merchandise business of the country. In comparison, 28 percent are in areas of less than 2,500 population and they do 6 percent of the business. The general-merchandise group includes department stores, variety stores, dry goods and general merchandise stores.

Apparel Group

Of the apparel group, which includes also shoe stores and accessories stores, 47 percent of the stores are in the cities of more than 100,000 population and they do 63 percent of the total apparel-store business of the country. Only 10 percent of the stores are in places of less than 2,500 population and they do only 3 percent of the total business of apparel stores. Apparel, however, is sold in stores other than apparel stores. It is an established fact that stores in the larger cities of an area tend to attract a disproportionate volume of the better apparel business, because of the greater variety of selection afforded by their larger stocks, and the alleged superior timeliness of their fashions. Again it is emphasized that the kind-of-business classifications are not interchangeable with commodity classifications.

Automotive Group

Of the 135,000 automotive establishments (except filling stations) in the country 24 percent are in cities of more than 100,000 population, where 37 percent of the total business is done. In comparison, 39 percent are in places of less than 2,500 population and they do 18 percent of the total automotive business (except filling stations). Motor vehicle sales agencies, garages, tire and battery shops and automobile accessory dealers are included in this group.

Filling Stations

There were 170,404 filling stations in 1933, of which 53 percent were in places of less than 2,500 population and in unincorporated areas. In contrast to other kinds of retail business, 31 percent of the entire filling station business of the country was done in these small towns and rural areas. This is slightly greater than the entire business done in all cities of more than 100,000 population, in which there were only 17 percent of the filling stations. A few retailers of fuel oil for domestic consumption are included.

Furniture and Household Appliances

Of the furniture and household-appliance group of nearly 43,000 stores, 34 percent are in cities of more than 100,000 population and they do 54 percent of the total business of this group of stores. Twenty-two percent of such stores are in the small areas of less than 2,500 population and they do only 8 percent of the total business of this classification. Floor coverings and radio stores are included in this group.

Lumber and Building Materials Group, including Hardware Stores

Twenty-six percent of the lumber and building material dealers of the country are located in cities of more than 100,000 population and they do 28 percent of the total lumber and building material business. A similar proportion is done in small towns and rural areas of less than 2,500 population, in which are located 38 percent of the total number of dealers. This group includes dealers in lumber, hardware and farm implements, plumbing, electrical, paint and other building supplies.

Drug Stores

The large cities of more than 100,000 population include 39 percent of all the drug stores of the country, in contrast to 29 percent in the towns and areas of less than 2,500 population. However, their sales aggregate 48 percent of the total drug store business of the country in comparison with 15 percent in the rural areas. Except for these two extremes in city size the proportion of filling stations in each size-of-city group is almost identical with that of drug stores and the proportions of sales are almost identical. A comparison follows:

Percent of Stores and Sales in Each City-Size Group

Size of City	Filling Stations		Drug Stores
	Stores	Sales	Stores	Sales
Totals: 1933	100	100	100	100
500,000 or more	7	13	22	26
250,000 to 500,000	5	9	9	13
100,000 to 250,000	5	8	8	9
75,000 to 100,000	2	3	2	3
50,000 to 75,000	3	5	4	5
30,000 to 50,000	4	5	4	5
20,000 to 30,000	3	4	4	4
10,000 to 20,000	6	8	6	7
5,000 to 10,000	6	7	6	7
2,500 to 5,000	6	7	6	6
All other areas	53	31	29	15

The significance of the above comparisions is that for national distribution in cities between 2,500 and 100,000 population, these two kinds of stores seem to be indicative of the distribution of business of the semi-necessity, neighborhood class of retail business. The proportions are probably a close measure of the actual distribution of other semi-necessity stores of the neighborhood type, including grocery stores, although the latter in their several gradations may appear variously as combination stores, country general stores or even, in some communities, as delicatessen stores. The percentage distribution by city-size groups will vary, of course, for the several geographic divisions and States.

Comparision with 1929 - Total Stores

Comparison of the 1933 analysis with that of four city-size groups for 1929 discloses that there has been practically no shift in the proportion of stores in community groups of various sizes. Nor has there been any material change in the proportion of sales in the larger cities as compared with cities of 10,000 to 30,000, cities of 5,000 to 10,000, and communities smaller in size than 5,000. Within one percent, each accounted for the same proportion of the total retail business of the country in 1933 as it did in 1929.

Cities of more than 30,000 population in 1933 contained 43 percent of the stores and accounted for 59 percent of the total retail business of the country. In 1929 the same cities contained 44 percent of the stores and accounted for 58 percent of the total business.

Cities of 10,000 to 30,000 population contained 11 percent of the stores in 1933 and 11 percent in 1929. They account for 11 percent of all retail sales in 1933 and 12 percent in 1929.

Cities of 5,000 to 10,000 population contained 7 percent of the retail stores in 1933 and 7 percent in 1929. Likewise, they account for 7 percent of retail sales in 1933 and 7 percent in 1929.

Incorporated cities and towns of less than 5,000 population and unincorporated areas, contained 39 percent of all retail stores in 1933 and 38 percent in 1929. These stores accounted for 23 percent of retail business in 1933 and 23 percent in 1929.

Comparisons between 1933 and 1929 for the several size-groups below 5,000 population cannot be shown, for the reason that the 1929 classification by size (page 178, United States Summary of Retail Distribution) includes a number of unincorporated communities which in 1933, being unincorporated, were classified as "other areas" and grouped with incorporated towns of less than 2,500 population. A summary follows:

Comparison with 1929 by Kinds of Business

The comparison of sales by city-size groups in 1933 and 1929 for each kind-of-business classification disclosed few variations. Some of them, however, are of interest. Note, for instance, the shift in farmers' supplies and country-general stores from the smaller to the moderate sized cities; also in the lumber-building and hardware group the increased importance of sales in small towns and rural areas. A summary follows:

Sales of Each Business Group, by Size of City---1933 and 1929

Retail Characteristics of Cities

It is possible to obtain from the accompanying tables a measure of the retail characteristics of the cities in each size-class in the several States---that is, the proportion of the stores that are food stores, the proportion that are apparel stores, etc., and the proportion of total retail business done by each kind of store.

For the United States as a whole, the following general conclusions are suggested by the tables:

The largest cities contain the greatest proportion of food stores, and 41 percent of all stores in such cities are food stores. In the areas of less than 2,500, the proportion of food stores drops to 23 percent; but country-general stores replace them, so that food stores and country-general stores combined constitute the same proportion of total stores as in the largest cities, or 41 percent. Food stores in the largest cities account for 28 percent of the total retail business in such cities, whereas their proportion in the small communities is 23 percent. At least one-half of country-general stores sales represents food; the 23 percent for food stores is thus increased to 36 percent, or more, which is a conservative measure of the proportion of retail business in the small communities representing the sale of food. Typically, food stores constitute about one-third of the total number of stores in an average city and they do about 30 percent of all retail business in such cities.

Restaurants typically constitute 13 to 14 percent of the number of retail stores and they account for about 5 percent of the total retail business of the average city. The smaller the city the smaller the proportion of retail business which is accounted for by the restaurants; on the other hand, in the largest cities restaurant sales represent 8 percent of all the retail business in such cities.

General-merchandise stores typically represent about 3 percent of the stores, but they account for 16 to 18 percent of the total retail business. This proportion falls off rapidly in cities below 10,000 population, where the proportion of stores is no less but their sales average only 5 percent of the total sales in the small towns and rural areas.

Apparel stores constitute as much as 9 percent of all stores in the larger cities and in characteristic cities of 30,000 to 100,000 they average 8 percent of all stores. Typically, they account for 9 to 10 percent of total retail business in the average city, but only 1 percent in areas under 2,500 population (This is the measure of apparel store sales, not of apparel sales).

Both motor vehicle dealers and filling stations increase in relative importance to other business in inversed proportion to population. In the largest cities they constitute 6 percent and 4 percent respectively of all retailers, and together they do 11 percent of the business. In cities between 30,000 and 100,000, the automotive group accounts for 16 to 18 percent of all retail places of business, equally divided between filling stations and other automotive. Filling stations in such cities do 6 percent of the total retail business of those cities, and the remainder of the automotive group (principally motor vehicle dealers) do 12 to 13 percent. In areas of less than 2,500 population, filling stations constitute 18 percent of all retail places of business and account for 11 percent of the entire retail sales in such areas, with the remainder of the automotive group accounting for 12 percent.

The furniture and household group in typical cities constitutes 3 percent of all retail stores and accounts for 4 to 5 percent of all retail sales in such cities.

Lumber and building material dealers in cities of 30,000 to 100,000 account for 4 to 5 percent of all retailers and the same proportion of sales.

Drug stores, almost without regard to the size of the community, constitute 4 percent of all retail stores and account for about 4 percent of all retail sales.

This report contains tables showing for the United States and for each geographic area the number of stores and sales in each size-of-city group, and tables showing similar information for each State.
